The Indian Scout is a motorcycle built by the Indian Motor Cycle Company from 1920 to 1949. The 741B was most common Indian motorcycle made for military use in World War II, based on civilian Thirty-Fifty design. Bikes were mainly used by British and Commonwealth forces, and the company sold more than 30,000 units of this motor cycle.

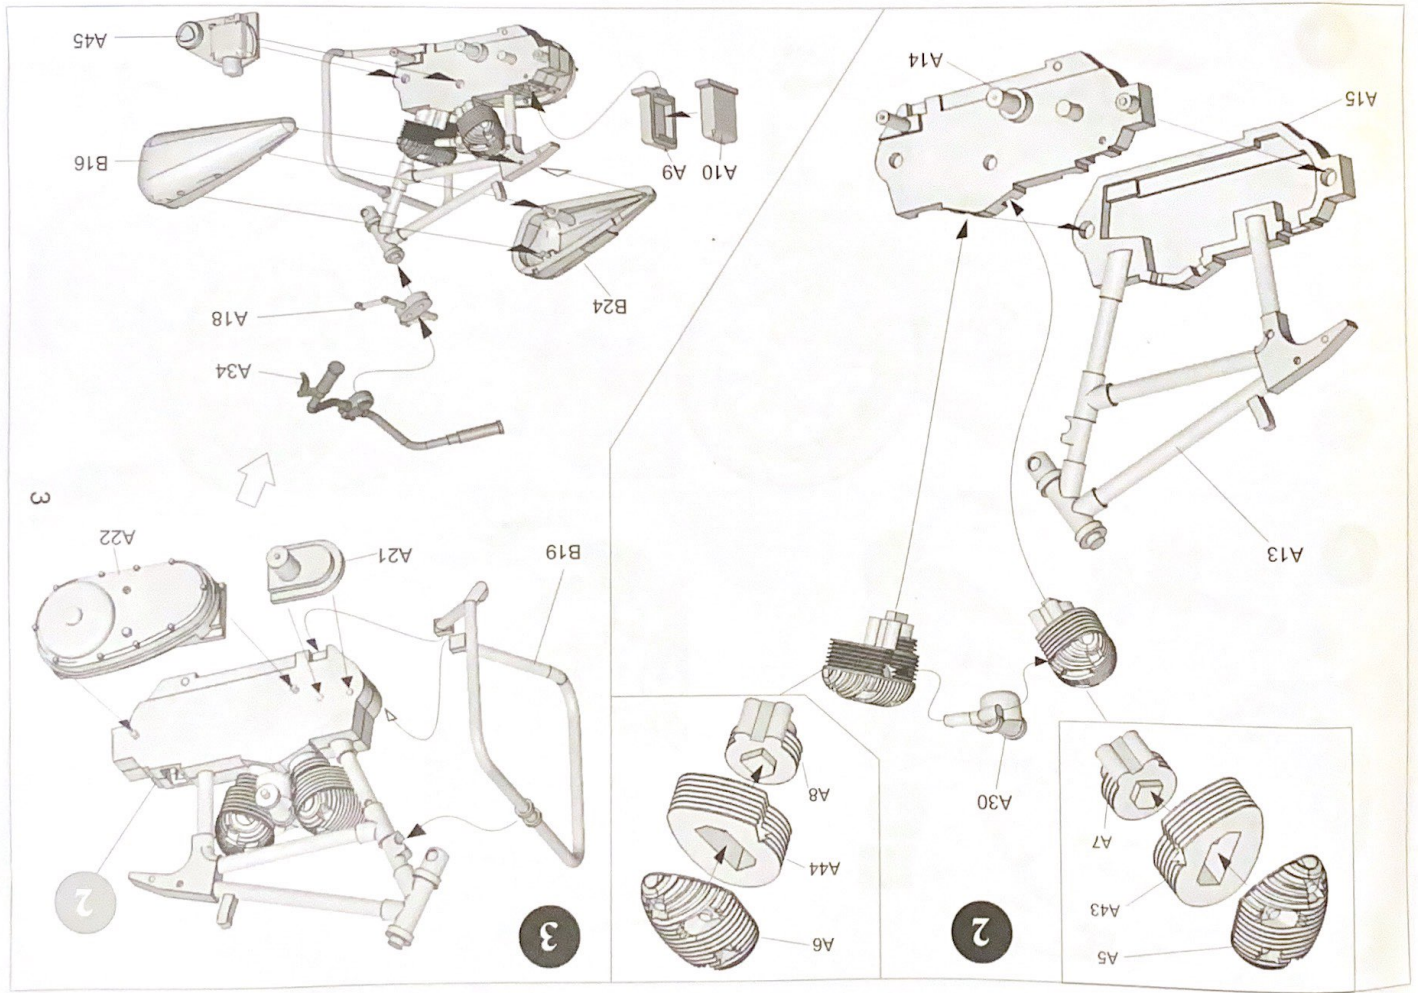

The 640-B, a military version of the Sport Scout, was tested by the US Army and used in the United States, but not shipped overseas. Approximately 2,500 were produced
